STATEMENT OF FACTS	4
ARGUMENT	6
I. PLAINTIFF'S EIGHTH AMENDMENT AND SUPPLEMENTAL CLAIMS SHOULD BE DISMISSED FOR FAILURE TO EXHAUST ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES.	6
A. Under the PLRA Inmates Must Exhaust Available Administrative Remedies.	6
B. Plaintiff's Administrative Appeals.	7
C. Plaintiff Failed to Exhaust the Appeal Concerning His Eighth Amendment Claim.	7
1. Plaintiff Failed to Follow Instructions from the Appeals Coordinator to Challenge a Screen-Out.	8
2. Plaintiff Failed to Exhaust His Appeal Through the Requisite Third Level of Review.	9
D. Plaintiff Could Not Possibly Have Exhausted His Supplemental Claim Before He Filed this Action Because the Allegations in the Supplemental Claim Occurred After Plaintiff Filed this Action.	9
II. DEFENDANTS ARE ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT.	10
A. Legal Standard for Summary Judgment.	10
B. Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment Claim Fails Because CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Has Not Had Any Adverse Effects on His Health and it is Adequate to Maintain His Health.	11
1. Defendants Were Not Deliberately Indifferent to Plaintiff's Serious Medical Needs Because CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Has Not Had Any Adverse Effects on Plaintiff's Health.	11
a. Plaintiff's Medical Records Show that He Does Not Have an Objectively Serious Medical Need to Eat Meat and that Defendants' Alleged Indifference Did Not Harm Him.	12

1. Plaintiff's Blood Tests Show He Does Not Have Any Nutritional Deficiencies and that His CLL is Stable.	12
2. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Does Not Violate the Eighth Amendment Because it is Adequate to Maintain Health.	13
a. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Exceeds Minimum Nutritional Requirements.	13
b. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet is Adequate to Maintain Plaintiff's Health.	14
C. Plaintiff's RLUIPA Claim Fails Because He Fails to Meet His Burden of Proof to Demonstrate Prima Facie Evidence of a "Substantial Burden" on His Religious Exercise.	14
1. Plaintiff Fails to Meet His Burden of Proof that a Vegetarian Diet Constitutes a Substantial Burden on His Religious Exercise.	15
a. Plaintiff Fails to Demonstrate Any Burden on His Religious Exercise.	15
b. Plaintiff Fails to Demonstrate that the Religious Vegetarian Diet Has Any Adverse Health Effects that Substantially Burden His Religious Exercise.	16
c. CDCR's Religious Diet Program Does Not Intentionally Put Significant Pressure on Plaintiff to Abandon His Religious Beliefs.	16
2. CDCR Has a Compelling Governmental Interest in Saving the Prohibitive Expense of Providing Jewish Kosher Meals to Muslim Inmates.	17
3. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet is the Least Restrictive Alternative to Accommodate Muslim Inmates.	18
D. Plaintiff's Equal Protection Claim Fails Because CDCR's Religious Diet Program is Reasonably Related to Legitimate Penological Interests.	19
1. CDCR Has a Valid, Rational Connection Between its Religious Diet Program and its Legitimate Governmental Interests	19
2. Plaintiff Does Not Allege that He Lacks Alternative Means to Practice His Religion.	20
3. Providing Jewish Kosher Meals to Over Five Thousand Muslim Inmates Would Have a Substantial Impact on the Allocation of Prison Resources.	20

1 as required by the Prison Litigation Reform Act (PLRA), 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a). Plaintiff may
 2 provide evidence to the Court to dispute the evidence Defendants present. Wyatt v. Terhune, 315
 3 F.3d 1108, 1119-20 n.14 (9th Cir. 2003).

4 PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that under Rule 56 of the Federal Rules of Civil
 5 Procedure, Defendants move this Court for summary judgment on the grounds that there are no
 6 genuine issues of material fact, that Defendants are entitled to judgment as a matter of law, and 7 that Defendants are entitled to qualified immunity.

8 This motion is based on this Notice, the following Memorandum of Points and 9 Authorities, the declarations and exhibits filed in support of this motion and the pleadings and 10 records on file with the Court in this action.

11 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

12 PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

13 Plaintiff, a state prisoner incarcerated in the California Department of Corrections and 14 Rehabilitation (CDCR) filed this action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. He alleges that Defendants 15 have given him a religious vegetarian diet instead of a Jewish kosher diet in violation of his 16 constitutional rights and the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA), 42
 17 U.S.C. § 200cc-1. (2d Am. Compl., Docket No. 5, at 4-12; Order of Service, Docket No. 8, at 1-18 2.)

19 This Court screened Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint under 28 U.S.C. § 1915A
 20 and recognized the following claims against Defendants Raghunath, Hedrick, Klein, Curry, Hill, 21 Jannah, Chudy, Aboytes, and Grannis: (1) claims under the Eighth Amendment for the 22 deprivation of a diet including meat that complies with his religious dietary restrictions and 23 meets his nutritional needs for his health condition (Docket No. 8 at 4:16-20); (2) a claim under 24 RLUIPA for failure to provide halal meat (Id. at 6:16-18); and (3) an Equal Protection claim for 25 failure to provide a halal diet including meat to Muslims, while providing a Jewish kosher diet to 26 observant Jews (Id. at 6:1-3).

27 The Court dismissed Plaintiff's claims regarding Free Exercise, inmate appeals, dental 28 care, provision of glasses and prescription medication, work assignments, interference with

1 parole, and mental health care. (Id. at 5:13-19; 7:20-24; 8:7-11.) Additionally, the Court
 2 dismissed the State of California and CDCR as defendants, along with all other named
 3 defendants. (Id. at 8:26-9:1; 9:8-13.)

4 The Court later granted Plaintiff's motion to add a supplemental claim concerning a 5 change in his classification status that occurred after Plaintiff filed this action. (See Docket Nos.
 6 14, 16, 21.)

7 Defendants now move this Court to dismiss Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claim and his 8 supplemental claim for failure to exhaust administrative remedies as required under the PLRA,
 9 and because Defendants are entitled to judgment as a matter of law and qualified immunity on all 10 claims.

11 SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

12 Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment and supplemental claims should be dismissed for failure to 13 exhaust his administrative remedies under the PLRA. Defendants are also entitled to summary
 14 judgement on Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment, RLUIPA, and Equal Protection claims for these 15 reasons: (1) Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claims fail because CDCR's religious vegetarian diet
 16 has not had any adverse effects on his health and it is adequate to maintain his health; (2)
 17 Plaintiff's RLUIPA claim fails because he fails to meet his burden of proof to demonstrate prima
 18 facie evidence of a "substantial burden" on his religious exercise; and (3) Plaintiff's Equal 19 Protection claim fails because CDCR's Religious Diet Program is reasonably related to 20 legitimate penological interests. Additionally, Plaintiff fails to state a claim against Defendants 21 Curry, Hill, Grannis, or Aboytes, and all Defendants are entitled to qualified immunity.

22 ISSUE STATEMENT

23 1. The PLRA requires inmates to exhaust their available administrative remedies
 24 before filing a federal civil rights action. Plaintiff failed to properly exhaust his administrative 25 remedies for his Eighth Amendment and supplemental claims before he filed this action. Should 26 this Court dismiss those claims for failure to exhaust under the PLRA?

27 2. To establish an Eighth Amendment violation for deliberate indifference to serious 28 medical needs, a prisoner-plaintiff must show that defendants' alleged indifference caused the

1 plaintiff harm. Plaintiff's medical records show that he has not been harmed by CDCR's
2 vegetarian diet. Were Defendants deliberately indifferent to Plaintiff's serious medical needs?

3 3. To establish an Eighth Amendment violation for inadequate food, a prisoner-
4 plaintiff must show that the food is not adequate to maintain health. CDCR's vegetarian diet
5 exceeds minimum nutritional requirements. Did Defendants provide Plaintiff with inadequate 6 food?

7 4. To establish a claim under the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons
8 Act (RLUIPA), a prisoner-plaintiff has the burden of proof to demonstrate prima facie evidence 9 of a "substantial burden" on his religious exercise. Plaintiff fails to demonstrate any burden on 10 his religious exercise. Did Defendants substantially burden Plaintiff's exercise of religion in 11 violation of RLUIPA?

12 5. To establish an Equal Protection claim, a prisoner-plaintiff must show that the 13 policy at issue is not reasonably related to legitimate penological interests. Plaintiff fails to show
14 that the Religious Diet Program is not reasonably related to legitimate penological interests.
15 Does the Religious Diet Program violate Equal Protection?

16 STATEMENT OF FACTS

- 17 1. Plaintiff is incarcerated at the Correctional Training Facility and receives the religious 18 vegetarian diet under CDCR's Religious Diet Program. (Decl. Sciandra at Ex. B.)
- 19 2. In appeal log number CTF-07-00286, Plaintiff alleges that although CDCR's Jewish 20 kosher diet is religiously acceptable to Muslims, only Jewish prisoners are being allowed
21 to have the Jewish kosher diet. (Decl. Santiago at Ex. B; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. A, A31.)
22 This appeal was denied at the third level of review. (Decl. Grannis at 2 ¶ 6a, Ex. C; 2d 23 Am. Compl. at Ex. A, A41-42.)
- 24 3. In an unnumbered appeal that bears a stamp which says it was received by CTF Appeals
25 on March 28, 2007, Plaintiff alleges that the food manager is not honoring Plaintiff's
26 medical chrono to receive Jewish kosher meals. (2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B44.) This 27 appeal was screened out at the informal level of review on March 30, 2007, because the 28 appeals coordinators determined that it duplicated appeal log number CTF-07-00286.

- 1 (Decl. Santiago at 2 ¶ 5c; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B48.) This appeal was also screened
 2 out at the third, or Director's Level, of review on June 12, 2007, because Plaintiff failed
 3 to submit the appeal through the second level of review before seeking third level review.
 4 (Decl. Grannis at 3 ¶ 6b, Ex. C; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B49.)
- 5 4. Laboratory results from Plaintiff's blood tests between 2002 and 2008 show that his liver,
 6 kidney, blood sugar, albumin, iron, cholesterol, and triglycerides are all within normal
 7 range. (Decl. Chudy at 2 ¶ 4, Ex. B.)
- 8 5. Plaintiff's medical records show that his blood chemistry is consistent with chronic
 9 lymphocytic leukemia (CLL). (Decl. Chudy at 2 ¶ 3, Ex. A.) His recommended
 10 treatment plan has been to monitor his white blood count by taking a complete blood
 11 count about every four months. (Id.)
- 12 6. Plaintiff's blood tests show that his white blood count has remained elevated but stable 13 since 2002, which indicates that his CLL is not worsening. (Decl. Chudy at 2 ¶ 4a, Ex.
 14 B.)
- 15 7. Plaintiff's medical records show that he has been diagnosed with thalassemia trait. (Decl.
 16 Chudy at 2 ¶ 5, Ex. C.) Individuals who have thalassemia trait generally have a low to 17 normal iron level that is considered adequate. (Id. at 2 ¶ 5.) If those individuals take iron 18 supplements, then periodic blood tests are needed to monitor their iron levels so that 19 excessive iron does not lead to liver toxicity. (Id.)
- 20 8. CDCR's religious vegetarian diet contains 2898.63 calories and exceeds 100 percent of 21 the nutritional standards for men, as set by the Food and Nutrition Board of the Institute
 22 of Medicine, National Academy of Sciences, for: calories, protein, carbohydrates, dietary 23 fiber, fat, cholesterol, vitamin A, thiamin-B1, riboflavin-B2, niacin-B3, vitamin B6, 24 vitamin B12, vitamin C, vitamin D IU, folate, calcium, iron, magnesium, sodium, and 25 zinc. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 2a, Ex. A.) The religious vegetarian diet provides 176
 26 percent of the recommended daily protein and 280 percent of the recommended daily
 27 iron. (Id.)
- 28 9. CDCR's food costs per day, per inmate are as follows: (1) the religious vegetarian diet costs $2.6268; (2) the regular diet costs $2.8066; and (3) the Jewish kosher diet costs $7.1840. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3, Ex. A.)

10. There are approximately 10,000 Muslim inmates in the CDCR system. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3.)

11. None of the food CDCR serves contains any pork products or pork derivatives. (Decl. Summersett at 3 ¶ 4.)

12. CDCR's religious vegetarian diet serves fish at least once a week in a dinner meal, and sometimes also serves tuna fish in lunch meals. (Decl. Summersett at 3 ¶ 4.)

ARGUMENT

I.

PLAINTIFF'S EIGHTH AMENDMENT AND SUPPLEMENTAL CLAIMS SHOULD BE DISMISSED FOR FAILURE TO EXHAUST ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES.

A. Under the PLRA Inmates Must Exhaust Available Administrative Remedies.

The PLRA requires that inmates exhaust their available administrative remedies before filing civil rights actions in federal courts. 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a); Porter v. Nussle, 534 U.S. 516, 524 (2002); McKinney v. Carey, 311 F.3d 1198, 1199-1201 (9th Cir. 2002). The Supreme Court has held that exhaustion of available remedies requires that a prisoner "properly exhaust," which means that "prisoners must complete the administrative review process in accordance with the applicable procedural rules, . . . rules that are defined not by the PLRA, but by the prison grievance process itself." Jones v. Bock, 127 S. Ct. 910, 922 (2007) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted) (quoting Woodford v. Ngo, 126 S. Ct. 2378, 2384 (2006)). Therefore, "[c]ompliance with prison grievance procedures . . . is all that is required by the PLRA to 'properly exhaust.'" Id.

When an inmate-plaintiff fails to exhaust, a defendant may file a non-enumerated Rule 12(b) motion to dismiss. Wyatt, 315 F.3d at 1119-20 (9th Cir. 2003). In ruling on such a motion a court may look beyond the pleading to decide disputed issues of fact. Id. The proper disposition for failure to exhaust is dismissal without prejudice. Id. at 1120. If the court determines that any claims have not been exhausted, then the court should dismiss only those

1 unexhausted claims. Jones, 127 S. Ct. at 924-25.

2 B. Plaintiff's Administrative Appeals.

3 In his Second Amended Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that he exhausted his inmate appeals,
4 and he attaches sixteen inmate appeals in Exhibits A through H. (2d Am. Compl. at 1 ¶¶ D-F;
5 Exs. A-H.) Most of the appeals attached to the Second Amended Complaint either concern
6 claims that the Court already dismissed in this action or which are irrelevant to any claim in this
7 action. Only the following two appeals that Plaintiff attaches to his Second Amended Complaint
8 are relevant to the recognized claims in this action:

9 In appeal log number CTF-07-00286, Plaintiff alleges that although CDCR's Jewish 10 kosher diet is religiously acceptable to Muslims, only Jewish prisoners are being allowed to have 11 the Jewish kosher diet. (Decl. Santiago at Ex. B; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. A, A31.) This appeal
12 was denied at the third level of review. (Decl. Grannis at 2 ¶ 6a, Ex. C; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. A, 13 A41-42.)

14 In an unnumbered appeal that bears a stamp which says it was received by CTF Appeals
15 on March 28, 2007, Plaintiff alleges that the food manager is not honoring Plaintiff's medical 16 chrono to receive Jewish kosher meals. (2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B44.) This appeal was 17 screened out at the informal level of review on March 30, 2007, because the appeals coordinators
18 determined that it duplicated appeal log number CTF-07-00286. (Decl. Santiago at 2 ¶ 5c; 2d 19 Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B48.) This appeal was also screened out at the third, or Director's Level,
20 of review on June 12, 2007, because Plaintiff failed to submit the appeal through the second level 21 of review before seeking third level review. (Decl. Grannis at 3 ¶ 6b, Ex. C; 2d Am. Compl. at 22 Ex. B, B49.)

23 C. Plaintiff Failed to Exhaust the Appeal Concerning His Eighth Amendment
24 Claim.

25 In his Second Amended Complaint, Plaintiff admits that he failed to follow prison
26 grievance procedures for the submission of his inmate appeal concerning the alleged denial of a 27 medically adequate diet. Therefore Plaintiff failed to properly exhaust. Jones v. Bock, 127 S. Ct.
28 at 922.

1 The prison grievance process in California consists of an informal level of review and 2 three formal levels of review. Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3084.5. A decision at the third formal
 3 level, or Director's Level, is final and exhausts all available administrative remedies. Id. §§
 4 3084.1(a), 3084.5(e)(2). To initiate the inmate appeal process, inmates must use a CDC Form
 5 602 to describe the problem complained of and the action requested. Id. § 3084.2; (see Decl.
 6 Grannis at Ex. B). Inmates must submit appeals to the Appeals Coordinator at the institution 7 within fifteen working days of the event or decision being appealed, or of receiving an 8 unacceptable lower level appeal decision. Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, §§ 3084.2(c), 3084.6(c);
 9 (Decl. Santiago at 2 ¶ 2).

 11 1. Plaintiff Failed to Follow Instructions from the Appeals Coordinator to Challenge a Screen-Out.

12 The Appeals Coordinator screened out Plaintiff's unnumbered appeal (concerning the 13 alleged refusal to serve Plaintiff Jewish kosher meals) at the informal level of review on March 14 30, 2007, because the Appeals Coordinator determined that the appeal duplicated appeal log
 15 number CTF-07-00286. (Decl. Santiago at 2 ¶ 5c; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B48.) Plaintiff 16 alleges in his Second Amended Complaint that he disagrees with this action. (2d Am. Compl. at 17 6 ¶ V.) The screen-out form, however, states that if an inmate believes the screen-out is in error, 18 then the inmate should return the screen-out form to the Appeals Coordinator with an 19 explanation of why the inmate believes the screen-out to be in error, along with supporting 20 documents. (Decl. Santiago at 2 ¶ 4; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B48); see also Cal. Code Regs. tit.
 21 15, § 3084.3(d). Although there is a typewritten paragraph on the screen-out form that appears to 22 have been written by Plaintiff in which he discusses the screen-out, this paragraph is not dated 23 and there is no indication whether it was written at the time of the screen-out or if it was added
 24 for litigation purposes. (2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B48.) Moreover, Plaintiff's Exhibit B does 25 not contain any response to this paragraph from the Appeals Coordinator, which indicates that 26 Plaintiff did not challenge the screen-out.

27 Thus Plaintiff failed to comply with the prison grievance procedure for challenging a 28 screen-out. Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3084.3(d). Because Plaintiff failed to comply with prison

1 grievance procedures, he failed to properly exhaust. Jones v. Bock, 127 S. Ct. at 922.

3 2. Plaintiff Failed to Exhaust His Appeal Through the Requisite Third Level of Review.

4 Plaintiff failed to exhaust this appeal to the requisite third level of review. This appeal
5 was not only screened out at the informal level of review as discussed above, but it was also 6 screened out at the third, or Director's Level, of review. (Decl. Grannis at 3 ¶ 6b, Ex. C; 2d Am.
7 Compl. at Ex. B, B49.) The appeal was screened out at the third level of review because Plaintiff 8 failed to submit it through the second level of review before seeking third level review, as 9 required by prison regulations. Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3084.5(d); (Decl. Grannis at 3 ¶ 6b, Ex.
10 C; 2d Am. Compl. at Ex. B, B49). Thus Plaintiff failed to exhaust this appeal through the 11 requisite third level of review, and he failed to comply with the prison grievance procedures for 12 filing a third-level appeal. Therefore he failed to properly exhaust. Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, §§
13 3084.1(a), 3084.5(e)(2); Jones v. Bock, 127 S. Ct. at 922.

14 D. Plaintiff Could Not Possibly Have Exhausted His Supplemental Claim Before
15 He Filed this Action Because the Allegations in the Supplemental Claim Occurred After Plaintiff Filed this Action.

16 Under the PLRA, "no action shall be brought . . . until such administrative remedies as 17 are available are exhausted." 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a). Courts have interpreted this provision to 18 mean that exhaustion of administrative remedies must be completed before the complaint is filed.
19 McKinney, 311 F.3d at 1199. The Ninth Circuit recognizes that "the PLRA requires that a 20 prisoner exhaust his administrative remedies before submitting any papers to the federal courts," 21 noting that "[t]he bottom line is that a prisoner must pursue the prison administrative process as 22 the first and primary form for redress of grievances." Vaden v. Summerhill, 449 F.3d 1047, 23 1048-50 (9th Cir. 2006). Allowing prisoners to exhaust administrative appeals any later in the 24 process "would be inconsistent with the objectives of the [PLRA]." Id. at 1051.

25 Here, Plaintiff brought this action on June 5, 2007. In his supplemental claim, Plaintiff
26 alleges that unspecified defendants changed his classification status after this action was filed.
27 (Docket No. 16 at 2 ¶ 4.) In a request for injunction that this Court denied, Plaintiff previously 28 made similar but substantially more detailed factual allegations concerning this claim, in which

1 he alleged that unspecified defendants changed his classification status during his annual
 2 classification review on March 26, 2008—which occurred almost 10 months after Plaintiff
 3 brought this action. (See Docket No. 21 at 2:7-13; Docket No. 14 at 1.)

4 Therefore, because the alleged actions in Plaintiff's supplemental claim occurred almost 5 10 months after he brought this action, he cannot possibly have exhausted the supplemental 6 claim before he brought this action. 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a); McKinney, 311 F.3d at 1199; Vaden, 7 449 F.3d at 1048-50. Thus Plaintiff's supplemental claim should be dismissed for failure to 8 exhaust under the PLRA.

9 II.

10 DEFENDANTS ARE ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT.

11 A. Legal Standard for Summary Judgment.

12 Summary judgment is appropriate “where there is no genuine issue as to any material
 13 fact, and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Material
 14 facts are those that may affect the outcome of the action. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477
 15 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). The party moving for summary judgment bears the initial burden of 16 identifying those portions of the pleadings, discovery, and affidavits that demonstrate the absence
 17 of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986).

18 Once the moving party meets its initial burden, entry of summary judgment is mandated 19 where the nonmoving party fails to “set forth specific facts showing that there remains a genuine 20 issue for trial” and evidence “significantly probative as to any [material] fact claimed to be 21 disputed.” Steckl v. Motorola, Inc., 703 F.2d 392, 393 (9th Cir. 1983) (internal quotation marks 22 omitted) (citing Ruffin v. County of Los Angeles, 607 F.2d 1276, 1280 (9th Cir. 1979)).

23 If the evidence presented by the nonmoving party is “merely colorable, . . . or is not 24 sufficiently probative, . . . summary judgment may be granted.” Anderson, 477 U.S. at 249-50 25 (internal citations omitted; citing Dombrowski v. Eastland, 387 U.S. 82 (1967) (per curiam), and 26 First Nat'l Bank of Ariz. v. Cities Serv. Co., 391 U.S. 253, 290 (1968)). There is no triable issue 27 of fact unless the nonmoving party submits sufficient evidence for a jury to return a verdict in the 28 nonmoving party's favor. Id. at 249.

B. Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment Claim Fails Because CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Has Not Had Any Adverse Effects on His Health and it is Adequate to Maintain His Health.

In its Order of Service, this Court found that Plaintiff stated an Eighth Amendment claim "with regard to the deprivation of a diet including meat that complies with his religious dietary restrictions and meets his nutritional needs with regard to his health condition" against all Defendants. (Docket No. 8 at 4:16-20.) Even if, arguendo, the Court finds that Plaintiff exhausted his Eighth Amendment claim, then Defendants are still entitled to judgment as a matter of law on this claim. The Eighth Amendment's prohibition on cruel and unusual punishment extends to deliberate indifference to serious medical needs and to adequate food. Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 104 (1976); Keenan v. Hall, 83 F.3d 1083, 1091 (9th Cir. 1996). Here, Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claim fails because CDCR's religious vegetarian diet has not had any adverse effects on his health and it is adequate to maintain his health.

1. Defendants Were Not Deliberately Indifferent to Plaintiff's Serious Medical Needs Because CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Has Not Had Any Adverse Effects on Plaintiff's Health.

To establish an Eighth Amendment claim arising out of inadequate medical care, a prisoner-plaintiff must prove "deliberate indifference to serious medical needs." Estelle, 429 U.S. at 104. In the Ninth Circuit, deliberate indifference is shown by a two-prong test. McGuckin v. Smith, 974 F.2d 1050, 1059-60 (9th Cir. 1992) overruled on other grounds by WMX Techs., Inc. v. Miller, 104 F.3d 1133 (9th Cir. 1997) (en banc).

First, the plaintiff must show an objectively "serious medical need" by demonstrating that "failure to treat a prisoner's condition could result in further significant injury or the 'unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain.'" Id. at 1059 (citing Estelle, 429 U.S. at 104).

Second, the plaintiff must show that the defendant acted with deliberate indifference, which is a subjectively "sufficiently culpable state of mind" that is more than mere negligence but less than conduct undertaken for the very purpose of causing harm. Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 837 (1994). This second prong is satisfied by showing: (a) a purposeful act or failure to respond to a prisoner's pain or possible medical need; and (b) harm caused by the indifference.

1 Jett v. Penner, 439 F.3d 1091,1096 (9th Cir. 2006). Indeed, a prison official is only liable under
 2 the Eighth Amendment if the official “knows that inmates face a substantial risk of serious harm
 3 and disregards that risk by failing to take reasonable measures to abate it.” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 4 847. Allegations of negligence, gross negligence, civil recklessness, and medical malpractice are 5 all insufficient to establish a constitutional violation. Toguchi v. Chung, 391 F.3d 1051, 1060
 6 (9th Cir. 2004); Farmer, 511 U.S. at 836.

7 a. Plaintiff’s Medical Records Show that He Does Not Have an 8 Objectively Serious Medical Need to Eat Meat and that Defendants’ Alleged Indifference Did Not Harm Him.

9 In his Second Amended Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that he has Chronic Lymphocytic 10 Leukemia (CLL) for which he needs to eat meat and take iron supplements. (2d Am. Compl. at 11 5-6, 8-9, 12, 14.) As this Court noted in its Order of Service, Plaintiff alleges that Plaintiff’s
 12 “dietary and health preference is to have a religiously permissible diet that includes meat.”
 13 (Docket No. 8 at 5:17-19; emphasis added.) Plaintiff’s medical records, however, show that he 14 does not have an objectively serious medical need to eat meat, because the vegetarian diet he 15 receives under CDCR’s Religious Diet Program (see Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, §§ 3054-3054.4)
 16 has not resulted in any injury or unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain. Moreover, Plaintiff’s 17 medical records show that the vegetarian diet has not had any adverse effects on his health.

18 1. Plaintiff’s Blood Tests Show He Does Not Have Any 19 Nutritional Deficiencies and that His CLL is Stable.

20 Laboratory results from Plaintiff’s blood tests between 2002 and 2008 show that his liver,
 21 kidney, blood sugar, albumin, iron, cholesterol, and triglycerides are all within normal range.
 22 (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 4.) This indicates that Plaintiff does not have any nutritional deficiencies and is 23 consuming adequate amounts of protein and iron, among other nutrients. (Decl. Chudy at 2 ¶ 4.)
 24 This further indicates that his vegetarian diet has not adversely affected him. (Id.) Additionally,
 25 Plaintiff’s blood tests show that his white blood count has remained elevated but stable since 26 2002, which indicates that his CLL is not worsening. (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 6.) Finally, Plaintiff’s
 27 medical records show that he has thalassemia trait, which means that he is likely to have an iron 28 level that is in the low to normal range but which is considered adequate for an individual with

1 thalassemia trait. (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 7.) If people with thalassemia trait take iron supplements,
 2 then periodic blood tests are needed to monitor their iron levels so that excessive iron does not
 3 cause liver toxicity. (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 7.)

4 Thus Plaintiff fails to show that he has an objectively serious medical need to eat meat,
 5 the denial of which could result in significant injury or the unnecessary and wanton infliction of 6 pain. Plaintiff also fails to show that he has been harmed by Defendants' alleged indifference.
 7 Therefore Defendants' are entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiff's claim as a matter of law.

 9 2. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Does Not Violate the Eighth Amendment Because it is Adequate to Maintain Health.

10 Although Plaintiff has a preference for a diet that includes meat, CDCR's religious 11 vegetarian diet is adequate to maintain his health. "Adequate food is a basic human need 12 protected by the Eighth Amendment." Keenan, 83 F.3d at 1091 (citing Hoptowit v. Ray, 682
 13 F.2d 1237, 1246 (9th Cir. 1982)). "While prison food need not be 'tasty or aesthetically
 14 pleasing,' it must be 'adequate to maintain health.'" Id. at 1091 (citing LaMaire v. Maass, 12
 15 F.3d 1444, 1456 (9th Cir. 1993)). Thus for purposes of the Eighth Amendment, it is irrelevant
 16 whether Plaintiff has a dietary preference for meat, as long as the vegetarian diet he is offered is 17 adequate to maintain his health.

18
 19 a. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet Exceeds Minimum Nutritional Requirements.

20 CDCR's religious vegetarian diet is more than adequate to maintain health. It contains 21 2898.63 calories and exceeds 100 percent of the nutritional standards for men, as set by the Food
 22 and Nutrition Board of the Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Sciences, for: calories,
 23 protein, carbohydrates, dietary fiber, fat, cholesterol, vitamin A, thiamin-B1, riboflavin-B2,
 24 niacin-B3, vitamin B6, vitamin B12, vitamin C, vitamin D IU, folate, calcium, iron, magnesium, 25 sodium, and zinc. (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 8.) More specifically, the religious vegetarian diet provides 26 176 percent of the recommended daily protein and 280 percent of the recommended daily iron.
 27 (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 8.) Therefore the religious vegetarian diet exceeds minimum nutritional 28 requirements and is thus adequate to maintain health under the Eighth Amendment.

b. CDCR's Religious Vegetarian Diet is Adequate to Maintain Plaintiff's Health.

The religious vegetarian diet is also adequate to maintain Plaintiff's health. As discussed in part II.B.1.a. above, Plaintiff's medical condition does not require that he consume meat for the following reasons: (1) his liver, kidney, blood sugar, albumin, iron, cholesterol, and triglycerides are all within normal range, which indicates that he is receiving adequate nutrition; (2) his white blood count is elevated but stable, which means that his CLL is not worsening. (Stmnt. Facts at ¶¶ 4-6.) These factors taken together suggest that the religious vegetarian diet is adequate to maintain Plaintiff's health despite his diagnosis of CLL. Thus the religious vegetarian diet does not deprive Plaintiff of adequate nutrition in violation of the Eighth Amendment. Therefore Defendants are entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiff's claim as a matter of law.

C. Plaintiff's RLUIPA Claim Fails Because He Fails to Meet His Burden of Proof to Demonstrate Prima Facie Evidence of a "Substantial Burden" on His Religious Exercise.

In its Order of Service, this Court recognized Plaintiff's RLUIPA claim, but noted that "[w]hile it is certainly questionable whether the failure to provide halal meat constitutes a substantial burden on the exercise of Plaintiff's religion, the claim is sufficient to be served against the . . . Defendants." (Docket No. 8 at 6:16-18.) Indeed, Plaintiff fails to meet his burden of proof to demonstrate a prima facie claim that CDCR's Religious Diet Program constitutes a substantial burden on the exercise of his religious beliefs.

The Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA) provides that, "No government shall impose a substantial burden on the religious exercise of a person residing in or confined to an institution . . . even if the burden results from a rule of general applicability," unless the government demonstrates that the burden is "in furtherance of a compelling governmental interest" and "is the least restrictive means of furthering that compelling governmental interest." 42 U.S.C. § 2000cc-1(a).

To state a claim under RLUIPA, the plaintiff bears the burden of proof to demonstrate a prima facie claim that a policy constitutes a substantial burden on his exercise of religion.

1 Warsoldier v. Woodford, 418 F.3d 989, 994-95 (9th Cir. 2005). If the plaintiff establishes a 2 substantial burden, then the defendants must establish that the policy serves a compelling
 3 government interest. Id. at 995-96. If the defendants establish that the policy serves a 4 compelling governmental interest, then the defendants must also establish that the policy is the 5 least restrictive alternative to achieve that interest. Id. at 998. Here, Plaintiff fails to meet his 6 burden to prove that he has been substantially burdened in the exercise of his religion, and so the 7 RLUIPA analysis should end after the “substantial burden” inquiry. Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 995.

 9 1. Plaintiff Fails to Meet His Burden of Proof that a Vegetarian Diet Constitutes a Substantial Burden on His Religious Exercise.

10 RLUIPA defines “religious exercise” as “any exercise of religion, whether or not 11 compelled by, or central to, a system of religious belief.” 42 U.S.C. § 2000cc-5(7)(A). RLUIPA, 12 does not define “substantial burden,” but the Ninth Circuit has explained that “a burden is 13 substantial under RLUIPA when the state denies an important benefit because of conduct 14 mandated by religious belief, thereby putting substantial pressure on an adherent to modify his 15 behavior and to violate his beliefs.” Shakur v. Schriro, 514 F.3d 878, 888 (9th Cir. 2008) (citing 16 Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 995) (internal quotation marks and brackets omitted).

17
 18 a. Plaintiff Fails to Demonstrate Any Burden on His Religious Exercise.

19 Plaintiff does not allege any sort of burden—substantial or insubstantial—on the exercise
 20 of his religion. Instead, Plaintiff alleges medical rather than religious concerns. As this Court 21 observed in its Order of Service, “Plaintiff has not alleged that his religion requires the 22 consumption of meat, only that his dietary and health preference is to have a religiously
 23 permissible diet that includes meat.” (Docket No. 8 at 17-19.)

24 More specifically, Plaintiff alleges that “[a] substantial burden was imposed on plaintiff 25 due to exercising of his religion.” (2d Am. Compl. at 10.) Plaintiff does not clearly allege the 26 cause or effect of the alleged substantial burden, but he requests relief in the form of an 27 injunction to receive the “diet as first ordered by the doctor” and any medication or vitamin
 28 supplements he may need. (Id.) Thus Plaintiff alleges an unsubstantiated medical concern, not a

1 substantial burden on his religious exercise.

2 Additionally, Plaintiff alleges that in violation of RLUIPA's section 2000cc-2(b) he was
3 not given vitamins or diet supplements for his alleged anemic condition. (2d Am. Compl. at 11.)
4 Here again, Plaintiff alleges an unsubstantiated medical concern and not a substantial burden on 5 his religious exercise.

6 Thus Plaintiff fails to demonstrate any sort of burden on the exercise of his religion.

7 b. Plaintiff Fails to Demonstrate that the Religious Vegetarian
8 Diet Has Any Adverse Health Effects that Substantially
9 Burden His Religious Exercise.

10 The Ninth Circuit has found that "adverse health effects from a prison diet can be relevant 11 to the substantial burden inquiry." Shakur, 514 F.3d at 888-89. In Shakur, the prisoner-plaintiff 12 alleged that the prison's vegetarian diet had an adverse health effect that burdened his religious 13 exercise because it gave him gas and irritated his hiatal hernia, which in turn interfered with the 14 state of "purity and cleanliness" he needed for Muslim prayer. Id. at 882.

15 By contrast, Plaintiff does not allege that CDCR's religious vegetarian diet has any 16 adverse health effects that burden his religious exercise in any way. Instead, as discussed
17 immediately above, Plaintiff only alleges unsubstantiated medical concerns. His medical records 18 show, however, that: (1) his liver, kidney, blood sugar, albumin, iron, cholesterol, and 19 triglycerides are all within normal range, which indicates that he is receiving adequate nutrition;
20 and (2) his white blood count is elevated but stable, which means that his CLL is not worsening.
21 (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 4-6.) Thus Plaintiff fails to demonstrate that the religious vegetarian diet has 22 any adverse health effects that substantially burden his religious exercise.

23 c. CDCR's Religious Diet Program Does Not Intentionally Put 24 Significant Pressure on Plaintiff to Abandon His Religious 25 Beliefs.

26 Plaintiff does not allege that CDCR's Religious Diet Program puts substantial pressure on 27 him to modify his behavior in violation of his religious beliefs. Indeed, a burden is substantial 28 when the state "denies an important benefit because of conduct mandated by religious belief, thereby putting substantial pressure on an adherent to modify his behavior and to violate his beliefs." Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 995 (internal brackets omitted).

1 In Warsoldier, a Native American inmate refused to cut his hair in compliance with the 2 prison's grooming policy because it violated his tribe's religious beliefs. Id. at 991-92. The 3 prison responded by taking several punitive measures against the inmate, including: loss of out-
 4 of-cell time; imposition of additional duty hours; reclassification into a workgroup with lesser 5 privileges; loss of telephone privileges; expulsion from vocational classes; removal from 6 leadership roles; prohibitions on yard recreation; reduced monthly draw at the prison store;
 7 prohibition from making special purchases at the prison store. Id. at 992. The Ninth Circuit held
 8 that by withholding such important benefits, the prison substantially burdened the inmate's
 9 religious exercise by intentionally putting significant pressure on him to abandon his religious 10 beliefs by cutting his hair. Id. at 995-96.

11 Unlike the prisoner-plaintiff in Warsoldier, Plaintiff does not allege that he has been 12 subjected to any sort of punishment or loss of privileges for following his religious beliefs.
 13 Moreover, CDCR's Religious Diet Program is not punitive in nature. See Cal. Code Regs. tit.
 14 15, §§ 3054-3054.4. Instead, the Religious Diet Program is intended to accommodate inmates 15 who have been determined to require a religious diet. Id. at §§ 3054(a), 3054.3(b)(1).

16 Plaintiff fails to meet his burden of proof under RLUIPA to demonstrate prima facie 17 evidence of a substantial burden on his religious exercise because: (1) he fails to demonstrate any 18 burden on his religious exercise; (2) he fails to demonstrate that the religious vegetarian diet has 19 any adverse health effects that substantially burden his religious exercise; and (3) CDCR's
 20 religious diet program does not intentionally put significant pressure on Plaintiff to abandon his 21 religious beliefs. Therefore the RLUIPA analysis should end here, and summary judgment
 22 should be granted in Defendants' favor as a matter of law.

23 2. CDCR Has a Compelling Governmental Interest in Saving the 24 Prohibitive Expense of Providing Jewish Kosher Meals to Muslim Inmates.

25 A plaintiff's failure to meet his burden of proof to demonstrate a substantial burden on 26 religious exercise ends the RLUIPA analysis in the defendants' favor. Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 27 995. Although the RLUIPA analysis in this action need not proceed further, Defendants assert 28 —for the sake of preserving their argument—that there is a compelling governmental interest for

1 the policy at issue.

2 More specifically, Defendants assert that the cost of providing a Jewish kosher diet to all
3 Muslim inmate who requested it would be prohibitive. The Supreme Court has acknowledged 4 that “‘maintain[ing] good order, security and discipline, consistent with consideration of costs
5 and limited resources,’ is a compelling government interest.” Shakur, 514 F.3d at 889 (citing 6 Cutter v. Wilkinson, 544 U.S. 709, 722 (2005)) (emphasis added).

7 Here, the food costs per day, per inmate are as follows: (1) the religious vegetarian diet
8 costs $2.6268; (2) the regular diet costs $2.8066; and (3) the Jewish kosher diet costs $7.1840.
9 (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 9.) There are approximately 10,000 Muslim inmates in the CDCR system.
10 (Stmt. Facts at ¶ 10.) If all 10,000 Muslim inmates chose the religious vegetarian diet option,
11 then this would cost $9,587,820 per year, and if only 5,000 Muslim inmates chose the religious 12 vegetarian diet option, then this would cost $4,793,910. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3a.) By 13 contrast, if all 10,000 Muslim inmates chose the Jewish kosher diet, then this would cost
14 $26,221,600 per year, and if only 5,000 Muslim inmates chose the Jewish kosher diet, then this 15 would cost $13,110,800 per year. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3b.)

16 Thus the Jewish kosher diet would cost CDCR $16,633,780 more per year than the 17 religious vegetarian diet for 10,000 Muslim inmates. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3c.) For only 18 5,000 Muslim inmates, the Jewish kosher diet would cost CDCR $8,316,890 more per year than 19 the religious vegetarian diet. (Id.) This substantial cost makes it prohibitively expensive to offer
20 the Jewish kosher diet to Muslim inmates.

21 3. CDCR’s Religious Vegetarian Diet is the Least Restrictive Alternative 22 to Accommodate Muslim Inmates.

23 If the defendants establish that the policy serves a compelling governmental interest, then 24 the next step is for the defendants to establish that the policy is the least restrictive alternative to 25 achieve that interest. Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 998. Here, Defendants assert for the sake of 26 preserving their argument that CDCR’s religious vegetarian diet is the least restrictive alternative
27 to accommodate Muslim inmates because it exceeds nutritional requirements, contains no pork
28 or pork derivatives, and provides fish at least once a week. (Stmt. Facts at ¶¶ 11-12.)

D. Plaintiff's Equal Protection Claim Fails Because CDCR's Religious Diet Program is Reasonably Related to Legitimate Penological Interests.

The Ninth Circuit has instructed that the proper standard for analyzing a prisoner-plaintiff's Equal Protection claim is the four-part balancing test required by Turner v. Safley, Shakur, 514 F.3d at 891 (citing Turner v. Safley, 482 U.S. 78 (1987)). Under the Turner test, Plaintiff "can succeed only 'if the difference between the defendants' treatment of him and their treatment of Jewish inmates is 'reasonably related to legitimate penological interests.'" Shakur, 514 F.3d at 891 (citing DeHart v. Horn, 227 F.3d 47, 51 (3d Cir. 2000) (en banc)). This is a lower standard than RLUIPA's "compelling government interest" standard. Warsoldier, 418 F.3d at 998.

1. CDCR Has a Valid, Rational Connection Between its Religious Diet Program and its Legitimate Governmental Interests.

The first Turner factor requires a "'valid, rational connection' between the prison regulation and the legitimate governmental interest put forward to justify it." Turner, 482 U.S. at 89-90. Here, the legitimate government interest is the efficient administration the Religious Diet Program to accommodate the religious dietary needs of thousands of prisoners within CDCR's budgetary constraints. The Ninth Circuit has recognized that administrative and budgetary concerns are legitimate governmental interests in the context of the Turner test as applied to religious diets. See Resnick v. Adams, 348 F.3d 763, 769 (9th Cir. 2003). Under the Religious Diet Program, CDCR strives to "make reasonable efforts, as required by law, to accommodate those inmates who have been determined . . . to require a religious diet." Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3054(a) (emphasis added). As discussed in part II.C.2. above, it would be prohibitively expensive and would cost at least an additional $8,316,890 more per year to provide the Jewish kosher diet instead of the religious vegetarian diet to a minimum of five thousand Muslim inmates. (Decl. Summersett at 2 ¶ 3c.) Thus the first Turner factor is satisfied.

1 2. Plaintiff Does Not Allege that He Lacks Alternative Means to Practice
 2 His Religion.

3 The second Turner factor requires the Court to consider whether there are alternative
 4 means by which an inmate can practice his religion. Turner, 482 U.S. at 90. Here, although 5 Plaintiff alleges that the prison has interfered with the practice of his religion by providing him
 6 with a vegetarian diet, he does not allege that he has been denied any other means of practicing
 7 his religion. (See 2d Am. Compl. at 4-14.) Defendants assert that, as required by prison
 8 regulations, they “make every reasonable effort to provide for the religious and spiritual welfare
 9 of all interested inmates.” Cal. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3210(a). Therefore Plaintiff is afforded 10 alternative means by which he can practice his religion. Thus the second Turner factor is 11 satisfied.

12 3. Providing Jewish Kosher Meals to Over Five Thousand Muslim
 13 Inmates Would Have a Substantial Impact on the Allocation of Prison Resources.

14 The third Turner factor requires the Court to consider “the impact accommodation of the 15 asserted constitutional right will have on guards and other inmates, and on the allocation of 16 prison resources generally.” Turner, 482 U.S. at 90. As discussed above in parts II.C.2. and 17 II.D.1., providing Jewish kosher meals to upwards of five thousand Muslim inmates would have 18 a substantial impact on the allocation of prison budgetary resources. Thus the third Turner factor 19 is satisfied.

20 4. Plaintiff Fails to Meet His Burden to Show Any Obvious, Easy
 21 Alternatives to the Religious Diet Program.

22 The fourth and final Turner consideration is the availability of “obvious, easy 23 alternatives.” Turner, 482 U.S. at 90. The burden is on the prisoner who is challenging the 24 regulation—not on the prison officials—to show that there are obvious, easy alternatives to the 25 policy. See O’Lone v. Estate of Shabazz, 482 U.S. 342, 350 (1987). Here, Plaintiff does not
 26 allege that his religion requires the consumption of meat, only that his dietary and health
 27 preference is to have a religiously permissible diet that includes meat. (Docket No. 8, 5:17-19.)
 28 As discussed above, Plaintiff is being provided with a diet that includes fish and vegetarian meat-

1 alternatives that are adequate to maintain his health. Moreover, Plaintiff fails to meet his burden
 2 to show any obvious, easy alternatives to the Religious Diet Program that would accommodate
 3 his perceived dietary needs and Defendants' legitimate penological interests. Thus the fourth
 4 Turner factor is satisfied.

5 Because Defendants have satisfied all four Turner factors, they are entitled to summary
 6 judgment on Plaintiff's claim as a matter of law.

7 E. Plaintiff Fails to State Any Claim Against Defendants Curry or Hill Because 8 there is No Respondeat Superior or Vicarious Liability Under 42 U.S.C. §
 9 1983.

10 Plaintiff fails to state any claim against Defendants Curry or Hill because he alleges only 11 respondeat superior or vicarious liability. The law is clear that there is not any respondeat
 12 superior or vicarious liability in actions, such as this one, that are brought under 42 U.S.C. §
 13 1983. Monell v. Dep't of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658, 692 (1978); Palmer v. Sanderson, 9 14 F.3d 1433, 1437-38 (9th Cir. 1993). A supervisor, like wardens Curry or Hill, is "only liable for 15 constitutional violations of his subordinates if the supervisor participated in or directed the 16 violations, or knew of the violations and failed to prevent them." Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 17 1045 (9th Cir. 1989).

18 Here, however, Plaintiff does not allege that Defendants Curry or Hill participated in or 19 directed the alleged constitutional violations. Instead, Plaintiff merely alleges that Defendant 20 Curry is responsible for religious and medical programs at CTF, and Defendant Hill is 21 responsible for religious programs at CTF. (See 2d Am. Compl. at 3, 6, 8.) Plaintiff does not 22 make any other allegations against either Defendant Curry or Hill. Thus Plaintiff fails to state a
 23 claim against Defendants Curry or Hill under a theory of either respondeat superior or vicarious
 24 liability, and so Defendants Curry and Hill should be dismissed with prejudice.

25 F. Plaintiff Fails to State a Claim Against Defendants Grannis or Aboytes for 26 their Handling of Inmate Appeals Because There is No Constitutional Right
 27 to a Prison Grievance System.

28 Plaintiff fails to state a claim against Defendants Grannis (as Chief of CDCR's Inmate Appeals Branch) or Aboytes (as Appeals Coordinator) because, as this Court noted in the Order of Service, there is no constitutional right to a prison administrative appeal or grievance system.

1 Ramirez v. Galaza, 334 F.3d 850, 860 (9th Cir. 2003); Mann v. Adams, 855 F.2d 639, 640 (9th
 2 Cir. 1988); (see also Docket No. 8 at 6-7; 2d Am. Compl. at 3-5). Under California Code of 3 Regulations, title 15, prisoners have a purely procedural right to prison appeals that cannot form
 4 the basis of a constitutionally cognizable liberty interest and therefore is not actionable under 42
 5 U.S.C. § 1983. See Smith v. Nonan, 992 F.2d 987, 989 (9th Cir. 1993); see also Antonelli v.
 6 Sheahan, 81 F.3d 1422, 1430 (7th Cir. 1996); Ramirez, 334 F.3d at 860; (see also Docket No. 8
 7 at 6-7). Additionally, this Court already dismissed Plaintiff's claim that his appeal was denied.
 8 (Docket No. 8 at 6-7.)

9 III.

10 DEFENDANTS ARE ENTITLED TO QUALIFIED IMMUNITY.

11 The defense of qualified immunity applies to "government officials performing 12 discretionary functions," who are "generally are shielded from liability for civil damages insofar 13 as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a 14 reasonable person would have known." Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982) (citation
 15 omitted). The rule of qualified immunity "provides ample protection to all but the plainly
 16 incompetent or those who knowingly violate the law." Burns v. Reed, 500 U.S. 478, 494-495 17 (1991) (citation omitted).

18 In Saucier v. Katz, 533 U.S. 194 (2001), the Supreme Court set forth a sequence of 19 questions to be considered in determining whether qualified immunity is applicable. First, a 20 Court must consider this threshold question: "Taken in the light most favorable to the party
 21 asserting the injury, do the facts alleged show the officer's conduct violated a constitutional
 22 right?" Id. at 201. If no constitutional right was violated under the alleged facts, the inquiry ends 23 and defendants prevail. Id. If, however, "a violation could be made out on a favorable view of 24 the parties' submissions," then the next sequential step is to ask whether the right was clearly 25 established. Id.

26 ///

27 ///

28 ///

A. Defendants are Entitled to Qualified Immunity Because Plaintiff Failed to Show Defendants' Actions Violated a Constitutional Right.

The first step under Saucier is to determine whether, taken in the light most favorable to the party asserting the injury, the facts alleged show that the officer's conduct violated a constitutional right. Saucier, 533 U.S. at 201. As discussed in detail in section II above, Plaintiff fails to show that any Defendants' actions violated his constitutional rights.

B. Defendants are Entitled to Qualified Immunity Because It Would Not Have Been Clear to Reasonable Officials that the Conduct at Issue was Unlawful.

Assuming arguendo that a constitutional violation could be found, then the next step under Saucier is to ask whether the right violated was a clearly established right. More specifically, the "relevant, dispositive inquiry in determining whether a right is clearly established is whether it would be clear to a reasonable officer that his conduct was unlawful in the situation he confronted." Id. at 202.

Additionally, the Ninth Circuit has held that to prevail on a motion for summary judgment a plaintiff "must put forward specific, nonconclusory factual allegations that establish improper motive causing cognizable injury." Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 911 (9th Cir. 2001) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citing Crawford-El v. Britton, 523 U.S. 574, 598 (1998)). The Supreme Court further held that to deny summary judgment any time a material issue of fact remains on a claim could undermine the goal of qualified immunity to "avoid excessive disruption of government and permit the resolution of many insubstantial claims on summary judgment." Saucier, 533 U.S. at 202 (citing Harlow, 457 U.S. at 818).

Here, it would not have been clear to a reasonable officer that such conduct as alleged was unlawful in the context of providing Plaintiff with a religious vegetarian diet under CDCR's Religious Diet Program. As described in section II above, Plaintiff's medical records show that religious vegetarian diet did not adversely affect Plaintiff's health, and that the religious vegetarian diet is more than adequate to maintain plaintiff's health. Additionally, it would not have been clear to Defendants that the regulations at issue were unlawful, if in fact they were. Moreover, Plaintiff did not put forward any specific, nonconclusory factual allegations that

1 establish improper motive causing cognizable injury.

2 Thus because Defendants' actions did not violate a constitutional right, and because it
3 would not have clear to Defendants that their actions may have been unlawful in the context of 4 providing Plaintiff with a religious vegetarian diet, Defendants are entitled to qualified immunity.

5 CONCLUSION

6 Defendants respectfully request that the Court: (1) dismiss Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment
7 and supplemental claims for failure to exhaust his administrative remedies under the PLRA; (2)
8 grant summary judgment in Defendants' favor on Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment, RLUIPA, and 9 Equal Protection claims; (3) dismiss Defendants Curry, Hill, Grannis, and Aboytes for failure to 10 state a claim; and (4) grant Defendants qualified immunity.
